

It is with much pride and pleasure that we present to you the new Lagooz Schools website. Now located at www.lagooz.com, the revamped website boasts a number of changes and refinements, in addition to a streamlined user experience. The first thing you might notice is that the website now bears the redesigned Lagooz Schools logo, and has an improved look and feel. But beyond these, the website still contains all the core information it previously had available.

One key improvement worth going over is the introduction of a News section. Here, students and parents alike can read about recent events and happenings in and around the school, with content regularly updated and moderated by the website's administrators. A link to the most recent article is prominently displayed on the home page, while older stories can still be viewed by clicking on News at the top of every page.

In the same vein as the News section, we are also introducing a Noticeboard feature, where quick notices and announcements can be made known. This too is displayed on the home page, with a link at the top of every page leading to an archive of previous announcements. Students are hereby advised to check on this regularly, as new announcements would be made on a regular basis.

There you have it, ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls. We hope the new website serves you well during your time at Lagooz. Thank you and God bless.
